Description

incredible experience at Crusoes, where we stayed in a hut near the beach. The family that run it are lovely, and people are friendly and interesting. The food was great. At night time, after the lights went out, we went to the water to see the bioluminescence, which was awesome. Accomodations are basic - as is common on Koh ta Kiev. Most rooms are covered tents and the majority have a shared bathroom and shared shower. You'll sleep out in the open air, listening to the sound of the waves, the trees, and the jungle behind the accomodation.
